DON CAMPBELL WINS NASCAR SOUTHWEST SERIES ROOKIE OF THE YEAR

Campbell, CA (November 17, 2005) – Don Campbell won the Sunoco Rookie of the Year title in the NASCAR AutoZone Southwest Series. Campbell beat many great rookie drivers including Ryan Foster, Dustin Jones, Stephan Sadler and David Mayhew. Campbell finished with the most overall Rookie points for the 2005 season, and also had the best eight finishes used to calculate the winner. In 14 starts, Campbell had 5 Rookie wins, five 2nd place Rookie finishes and two top-ten overall finishes. With this prestigious win, Campbell joins former Southwest Series Rookie of the Year winners Kurt Busch and Kevin Harvick who now drive in the Nextel Cup.

“This GKI Construction Chevy was very fast and consistent all year long,” said driver Don Campbell. “I accomplished all of my goals by winning the Sunoco Rookie of the Year title, having top-ten finishes and being competitive in every race. I would like to thank my crew chief Dino Fry, John Runion, Christal Campbell and the entire team for all of their great work and dedication throughout the year.”
